Crypto trading is, for many, a very emotional experience. The wild price moves can trigger a range of strong emotions. As extreme signals are easier to read, this could make existing AI models more suited to the crypto markets. This is something to hold in mind if you look to extract your crypto AI skills and apply them to other, more subdued markets.

Such nodes require extraordinary amounts of storage and memory. It often takes hours to join and sync to the network with a full node. Running a full node with cloud services will likely require you to pay a monthly service fee. Compare this with using a light node. These take up less space and can be small enough to run on mobile devices.

The task of these nodes is, as with full nodes, is to create and validate blocks, while at the same time distributing information to users on the network. All participants, not chosen to be an authority node, will be running lightweight nodes (light nodes) which depend on the broadcasted data to be able to operate on the blockchain.
