If you have tried day trading or watched somebody else day trade, you already know the concepts are simple, but being successful at day trading is like walking a tightrope. If you watch somebody doing it they make it look easy, but when you try it, it seems nearly impossible. This is the experience most new day traders will go through.

How to Read Crypto Charts Beginners Guide. Developing the right skills on how to read crypto charts is an art. This new skill will help you not only track the price of your favorite coin, but the crypto candlestick charts will actually tell you a lot about the trend of the market as well.

Candlestick charts are a major part of reading crypto charts. Every candle has a main body in either of the colors. You can also see single lines protruding from above and below the main body, called shadows. The body shows the opening and closing prices, and the shadows depict how high or low these starting and closing prices have risen or fallen.

Copy trading is essentially a type of automated trading where you can automatically copy other traders. This means that as these other traders earn or lose money with their trades, you will do the same. Copy trading is ideal for many types of trader whether you want to copy trade forex, or other markets.

Yes, copy trading is legal in the U.S. provided that your broker is properly regulated by either the CFTC, in the case of forex; or SEC, for stocks. For cryptocurrency copy trading your broker must be a registered Money Services Business, or MSB, and licensed by FinCEN. Copy trading is typically treated like having a self-directed account.

With candlesticks, you can get clues and insights from the price action as well as the general mood of the market for that asset. As time progresses, multiple candlesticks create larger patterns that crypto traders derive signals from to make vital trading decisions. At first, candlesticks may be a little difficult to understand.

When you research crypto assets, you may run into a special type of price graph called a candlestick chart. So its good to take a little time to learn how these work. Similar to more familiar line and bar graphs, candlesticks show time across the horizontal axis, and price data on the vertical axis.

A simple example would be, if a trader wanted to invest $100, they could buy 10 units of a stock that was priced at $10 (10 units x $10 = $100). It is important to never risk too much capital on one trade. Position size should be set as a percentage of the total day trading budget (which might be anywhere from 2% to 10%, depending on the budget).
